COMMERCE CHAMBER WILL MEET TONIGHT.

New Members Expected to Be Taken In as Applications Were Many.

RED FIRE IS TABOOED NOW

Officers Say There Can Be Activity and Enthusiasm Without Aid of a Brass Band or Megaphone—Nominating Committee Scheduled.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold an important meeting this evening for the purpose of considering the proposed changes in the by-laws of the organization, enlarging the membership and taking care of any other business that might come before the body.
Cordial invitations have been extended to all to attend the session as matters will be presented that will need careful consideration.

One of the things President Kipp-rick will do is to appoint a nominating committee to see that a representative
list of men is placed before the Chamber of Commerce for election to the Board of Directors. Owing to the adoption of the Williamsport plan for a guaranty fund, it was deemed wise to increase the number of Directors from 9 to 15. The annual election will be held in December.

Indications are that a large number of new members will be enrolled at the meeting tonight. Secretary J.
Fred Kurz has received a number of applications.

The sentiment expressed by those interested in the Chamber of Commerce is that while the campaign to be waged for the betterment of Connecticut should be vigorous and active, it should also be quiet. Red fire, torchlight processions and the more effervescent methods are tabooed. The officers believe they can perform effective work without employing a brass band or a megaphone as a mouthpiece.

There is, they say, necessity for concerted effort and a steady supply of enthusiasm, and interest will not be permitted to lag if it can be avoided.
The meeting tonight will be the first since the "get busy" dinner held last month while D. G. Derry, the silk manufacturer, was the guest of the Association.

GET ENGINE ON TRIAL.

Perryopolis Arranges For Chemical Fire Apparatus For 30 Days.

PERRYOPOLIS, Nov. 4.—(Special.)
The Secretary of the Fire Department after a short meeting Monday evening notified the Ajax Chemical Company of New York to ship a No. 2 chemical fire engine. The company is one of the best in the land and will pay the freight both ways with three charges of chemicals for demonstrations and at the end of 30 days if the people of town do not wish to purchase the engine it will be returned and all it will cost will be the postage for two letters.

A public demonstration will be given by the fire marshal when it arrives.

SUPERINTENDENT GRIFFIN

In Charge at the Humbert Tin Plate
Mill.

With Superintendent John Griffin
and Chief Clerk A. K. Murrell on the scene, things at the Humbert tin plate mill are looking up. There are only about 15 men at work about the plant
but they are getting things in shape
as rapidly as possible.

The material has begun to arrive
and new consignments reach the mill every day. It is being installed as rapidly as possible, but it is hardly likely the mill will start before the time originally announced by the company.

the trainmen's union and belonged to

EYES OF COUNTRY ON RAILROAD CASE

Sand Patch Test Case Suit of the Government Against Baltimore &
Ohio Railroad.

United States District Attorney
John M. Jordan will start the prosecution at Pittsburgh today, of a case in which the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company is charged with the violation of the safety appliance law in allowing trains to coast down mountain grades under the control of hand,
instead of air brakes, as the law requires.

The case is attracting universal interest among railroad men and government officials throughout the country, as it is a test case and will, it is said, be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States in any event.

About 50 experts in railroad affairs and safety appliances will be present as witnesses. Attorney John Mc-Cleary, for the railroad company, will be assisted by the general solicitor of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad from Baltimore, Md., while Attorney Harry
L. Daugherty, of Washington, D. C., representing the Interstate Commerce Commission, will assist the prosecution.

The case is known as the "Sand Patch" case, from the locality where the alleged violation took place, the Connellsville division of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

Stephen G. Porter today filed an appeal in Superior Court in behalf of Helen Boyle, asking a reversal of her sentence of 25 years in the Western Penitentiary, inflicted in Mercer county
after she was convicted of complicity
in the kidnapping of Billy White.
The appeal is merely a formal paper asking a review of the case. No mention is made of "Jimmie" Boyle.
Arguments in the appeal will be heard
next May, when the Superior Court sits here.

DISPATCHERS' MEETING.

Will Discuss Best Manner of Accurately Informing Public.

This afternoon the dispatchers of the West Penn and P. & M. & G. will meet in the office of Superintendent of Transportation J. W. Brown for the purpose of discussing matters of operation and considering the best manner of furnishing information to the public. It is the intention of the officials to have the dispatchers so well posted that they can intelligently route travelers over either their own or other lines in this neighborhood.

At present information of this nature can be readily secured upon application to Superintendent Brown, but it is intended to coach the dispatchers
as well.

AFFIDAVIT OF DEFENSE

surance Money.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 4.—An affidavit of defense was filed this morning in the suit of Alfred B. Jones guardian of Doris J. Wirsing, against Abraham Muller and Eva Maust Kelly to recover $3,000 insurance money.

Charles T. Wirsing took out the insurance in the Modern Woodmen of America and originally named the defendants as beneficiaries. He was taken sick and changed the beneficiary to Doris J. Wirsing. The defendants claim he did this when sick and not accountable for his actions.

NO CHANGES

On New Lake Erie Schedule Effective
on Sunday.

The new schedule on the Pittsburg
& Lake Erie railroad goes into effect
next Sunday, but Agent Thomas stated this morning that it was not likely that there would be any changes in the trains from or to the West Side.

"The same old thing, we don't have any reason to change, as the trains are running all right just now on this division."

Leave for Pacific Coast.

J. B. Yohe, general manager of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad, and Mrs. Yohe, accompanied by L. H.
Turner, general superintendent of mot-

CONFESSES MURDER IN FRENCH COURT

A Sensation Was Sprung This Morning in the Trial of Mme. Stenhelf.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—A man giving his name as Lefebvre rose in court during the trial of Mme. Stenhelf this morning and confessed that he committed the crime of murdering Stenhelf and Mme. Japy.

The statement of Lefebvre astounded
the judges and threw the court into the wildest confusion. Mme. Stenhelf's attorney received a letter from Lefebvre, asking that he be allowed to interrupt the case and make a statement. He was given permission by the court. "The Madame is innocent," he said. "I planned and executed
the murder," he said. Mme. Stenhelf saw breathless and collapsed in her chair at the conclusion of the confession.

Lefebvre is apparently 26 years old.
He said his motive for the killing was robbery. He declared he disguised himself as a red haired woman and obtained entrance to the Stenhelf home with a companion.

The judges ordered him sequestered and a woman's wig of red hair was found in his pocket. Mme. Stenhelf collapsed and was carried to an anteroom and revived.

Lefebvre was locked up and Mme.
Stenhelf then returned to the stand.
The story of Lefebvre's hours out the original story of Mme. Stenhelf. It will be investigated with regard to the relation's sanity.

HUNTER IS KILLED
BY HIS OWN GUN

J. H. Hough of Jacobs Creek Meets
Instant Death—Trigger
Caught Twig.

J. H. Hough, of Jacobs Creek, who while out hunting yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, accidentally shot himself through the heart and death resulted instantly. He left home in the morning and went to the vicinity of New Stanton, where he was joined by Robert Striker and Jesse Coffman. They enjoyed a hunt over the hills and passed for a rest.
Hough had laid the gun down on the ground and when he went to pick it up he seized it at the muzzle and pulled it toward him. The trigger caught on a twig and the gun was discharged, the lead taking effect in his heart.

Dr. Brett, of New Stanton, was called, but as death had ended life
no medical attention was necessary.
Coffman's undertaking establishment was called up and they took the body to Greensburg last night and prepared it for burial. He was 28 years old and single.

Clark, 6,230. For Judge Supreme Court, Von Mosehlskier, 5,257; Alun-son, 6,311.

THE OFFICIAL COUNT

Of the Election Returns Began at Noon Today.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 4.—The official count of the election returns began today when the return judges met at noon with the court and began their labors. The tally clerks this year are Attorney John Duggan, Jr., and Attorney C. A. Rhoades. Owing to the size of the ballots it may take the judges several days before the official returns are finally completed.

hills of the mountains. Great slaughter is predicted with the first tracking

STOBER'S MAJORITY WILL EXCEED 160,000

Munson Leads the Democratic Ticket Cutting Opponents Majority.

AMENDMENTS ARE IN DOUBT

The Total Vote Pooled in Keystone
State on Tuesday Was Close to Half a Million Short of the Presidential Year.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Complete returns from all but nine of the 37 counties and careful estimates from the missing counties show that
J. A. Stober, Republican, for State Treasurer, carried Pennsylvania by an apparent plurality of 161,653.
Judge Von Mosehlskier's plurality
over C. La Rue Munson, his Democratic opponent for Judge of the Supreme Court, is 92,344. Official returns will change these figures slightly. Two years ago Stober, Republican, carried Pennsylvania for State Treasurer by 146,224. The returns at hand indicate that excluding Philadelphia, where Von Mosehlskier received a majority of 92,592, he carried the State by only a very small plurality.

Munson ran ahead of his ticket in every county in the State, excepting Camden and Lebanon, where Kipp, for State Treasurer, ran ahead of his colleagues, and Crawford, Indiana and Montgomery, where Clark for Auditor General, led his party ticket. Munson carried 43 counties and Von Mosehlskier 24.

State Senator Slason's plurality for Auditor General is a little less than that of Stober.

Few counties reported the vote on constitutional amendments, but what were received indicated that the amendments have been defeated. Philadelphia, however, may save them. Practically all the Democratic counties turned in majorities against the amendments. Among the counties that failed to adopt the amendments
are Bradford, Butler, Center, Clarion, Clearfield, Fayette, Franklin, Fulton,
Greene, Leflore, Monroe, Perry, Potter, Schuylkill, Somerset, Venango and Wayne.

The total vote cast for all State candidates throughout the State will fall about 160,000 short of that cast at the State Treasurer election in 1907, when 872,970 votes were polled. The total vote cast for President last year was 1,267,450.

YOUNG HARRY SUSPENDED FOR ATTACK ON TEACHER

Resisted When Professor Bell Attempted to Punish Him for Truancy.

Samuel Harry, son of Contractor S.
J. Harry, has been suspended by the school authorities as the result of his run-in with Principal George H. Bell, at the South Side school yesterday.

Principal Bell attempted to punish young Harry for truancy. The boy resisted and there was a rough and tumble fight in the corridor. It is reported that Principal Bell was somewhat used up in the encounter.

This is the first serious case of insubordination that has come before the school authorities this term. It may be that the School Board will be asked to act on the matter. The boy is over 16 years old.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Orville
Wright and sister, Miss Katherine Wright, arrived today and were greeted by their brother, Wilbur. They said they had a pleasant trip from Europe, where Orville made many successful flights. A trip with the Crown Prince of Germany was the only extraordinary flight.

Remarkable on the flight of Count De Lambert of Paris, Orville said such flights were foolhardy and gained nothing, although sensational.

FIVE CANS OF FISH FOR INDIAN CREEK

Speckled Beauties Are Large Enough to Eat and Are for Spawning.

Instead of a carload of fish this morning the local sportsmen got five large cans, but they are more than satisfied. Captain John Stapleton arrived here late yesterday afternoon from Fairmont having been delegated to bring the fish here and to see that they were placed in Indian Creek.

The fish he brought were big enough to eat. It was expected that the Government would send but in the cans there were many fish several inches long. He believed that they would spawn millions of little ones in a year or so.

Captain Martin was in charge of the special car carrying the fish to different points. He had 10 cans of fish to deliver to points in West Virginia requested by Senator Elihu and altogether had 1,500 cans on the car. They were characterized as special orders.

Captain Stapleton accompanied the car from Decatur Ill., and was on his way home from the Alaska Exposition. He is to meet the fish car at Cumberland and go to White Sulphur Springs, where another car of fish is to be loaded. This car is destined to Indian Creek, but the fish will be small and it may be several years before they reach the proper size for catching.

Speaking of the exposition at Seattle he was enthusiastic over the showing being made there in an industrial way. He stated that it was all the people of the Pacific coast claimed for it.

United Press Telegram.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—The dropping of the graft prosecutions and making "Frisco" the widest open town in the country is generally believed will follow the election of P. H. Mc-Carthy as Mayor and defeat of Francis Honey as prosecutor.

McCarthy announced today he wanted to make "Frisco" the "Paris of America." It is believed Fickert, the newly elected prosecutor, is backed by Patrick Calhoun.

THE WEATHER

Has Been Good But Monotonous Past Few Days.

The election apathy seems to have extended to the weather, which hasn't done much of anything for the past several days. Following the ideal conditions that prevailed Sunday, there has been a little bit of every kind of weather, and not much of it, either.
It has not been cold or warm, and a happy medium obtained most of the time. Threatened showers developed into drizzles that did not amount to much.

The mercury this morning registered 46 degrees, the same as yesterday morning. Last evening the record was 57.

cessful store of this kind here for the past 15 years.

Mr. Herzberg was the original novelty man here and has been the only one to make a success of it. He has not decided what he will do in the future, but will likely conduct a business along other lines. His entire stock is to be disposed of.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS

Will Give Supper for Athletic Tomorrow Evening.

The High School girls will give an oyster supper tomorrow evening in the T. M. C. A. hall for the benefit of the Athletic Association. The funds for High School athletics have been running low this season and the girls immediately came to the front with a proposition to give a supper to help relieve the financial stringency.

Practically all of the School Directors have promised to attend. After partaking of the edibles at hand they will probably be in a position to decide whether the High School should include in its curriculum a course in domestic science.

HIGH SCHOOL PLANS FOR MONSSEN CAME

Coach Smith Works Eleven on Defense All Afternoon With Good Results.

Connellsville High School's eleven is going through the harshest period of practice it has had this year, preparatory to the game with Monessen High on Saturday. Coach B. B. Smith had them out yesterday afternoon and everything centered on strengthening the defense. Breaking up the forward pass was tried, repeatedly.

The second string of back field men was used, the regulars being up with the scrubs for the benefit of breaking up the plays. After the game several of the boys declared the workout to have been about as severe as any scheduled contest they have been in this season.

Saturday's contest promises to be a brilliant one. The local boys average 120 pounds, while Monessen is even lighter. Both teams are speedy and there will likely be more open play than in any previous game this year. Scottsdale has cancelled the game here November 20 and the Thanksgiving date remains unaltered.

WASH HERD FIGGERING.

On Socialist Vote Cast at Tuesday's Election.

"Yes, there's something new this morning," said Washington Herald, always a candidate for office. "We had four Socialist votes in New Haven, the West Side this year. That's a gain of three and I have been trying to find out where they came from." He figured around mightily with his pencil and after thinking whether John Duggan was responsible or Cooper Patterson decided to give the matter up and went home to feed his new alligator. With the Socialist vote at the polls Wash was not altogether satisfied and is becoming convinced that prevalence is on the increase. In the Fourth Ward, for instance, where he knew that he had a positive pledge as to votes, and where there are but four Socialists of the red type, only one vote was cast.

MADE IT A LIFE STUDY.

Dr. J. S. Leachard Found the Cause and Cure of Piles.

Dr. J. S. Leachard, the celebrated specialist of Lincoln, Neb., proved, after years of study, that the cause of piles is internal—bad circulation. Then he perfected Hem-Roid, an internal remedy, and in 1,000 different cases it cured 98 per cent, say Dr. Leachard's order. Hem-Roid is sold under an iron-clad guarantee. It fails, the money is paid back. $1 at A. A. Clarke's, Connelville, Pa., or mailed by Dr. Leachard Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet.

OFFICIALS ARE SAFE.

Failure of Tax Payers' League to Act Ends Court Case.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—Through failure of the Taxpayers' League of Greene county to file its recognition in an action against certain former county officials charged with misappropriating funds the last opportunity for such action is past.

Four years ago the league went into court and asked that $18 items of the auditor's report, amounting to $10,000, be surcharged. The action has been in court ever since. A decision was handed down by the court, giving the league 20 days in which to file a recognition, and the suits would be tried before a jury. The 20 days has expired.

The former officials paid all the costs. They are former County Commissioners T. J. Hoge, W. C. Frye, and W. L. Inghram; ex-Sheriff J. J. Koebert, ex-Treasurer J. P. Hagan, and ex-Poor Directors John King and Spencer Cowell.

WHY NOT STOP THAT ITCH?

Druggist J. C. Moore Assures Relief With Every 25 Cent Bottle.

Druggist J. C. Moore of this town says that he has found indisputable proof that eczema can be cured—just in one or two cases, but in scores of cases when he has studied.

He would, of course, not think of making such a recommendation to his neighbors and patrons, were it not that his years and years of success with D. D. Prescription enables him to speak of this remedy with confidence. It is a gentle, soothing wash with the aid of which eczema can be cured. All the cases seem to be permanent, at any rate, a trial bottle at 25 cents will take away the itch at once—instantly. We are sure of this, J. C. Moore, druggist, N. Water street.

Bell who stated last night that amputation would not be necessary.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. — Mrs. Emma Lase, 538 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

Bad Stomach Causes Unsightly Complexions—A. A. Clarke Has a Remedy. Bad stomachs mean bad blood; bad blood means sallow, unattractive skin.

Why? The stomach in a healthy condition separates the nutritious matter from the food and gives it to the blood to supply the entire body with nourishment.

If the stomach is not in a healthy condition it does not separate from the food the nutritious matter and it passes off with the waste.

Thus the blood is impoverished and has not sufficient nourishment to supply the muscles, skin and body generally.

If you have belching or gas, distress after eating, nausea, biliousness, nervousness or foul breath, then your stomach is wrong and you want the best prescription for stomach troubles the world has ever known.

You want Molo-n tablets, the great stomach remedy which A. A. Clarke guarantees to cure indigestion, no matter of how long standing, or money back.

Relieves stomach distress at once. Molo-n is sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Connelville by A. A. Clarke for 50 cents a large box. Test samples free from Booth's Molo-n Buffalo, N. Y.

This is a Day of Specialization

The man who does one thing and does it well as he can generally does it pretty well, same way with a business, this business. We're specialists in good clothes for Men and Boys. The specialization is in the goods as well as in the clothes. We do it as well as we can, and if we are permitted to judge by the way our clothing business is growing and the way our customers increase in numbers and through our floors, we do it pretty well. The thing we specialize is our merchandise, all of it, is quality. We buy it because it's good merchandise. We sell it at prices that give buyers big value for what they pay. It's a form of specializing in the clothing business that's not very common.

Take a Street Car or Train for Uniontown and buy your clothing at the New Lynch Store. We will pay car fare for any man or boy who purchases a Suit or Overcoat for Ten Dollars or over.

When You Buy a Suit or Overcoat, Buy Something Good.

Young Men's "Renowned" Ederheimer, Stein & Co. MAKERS

Each new day we demonstrate to many new customers and many old ones, the economy of buying good clothes. The economy is in the high value in the goods. The best is always the cheapest. Shoddy goods are not cheap at any price; if you are not a judge you must rely upon the judgment of others. The Lynch Store has built up the largest clothing business in Fayette county by selling merchandise of the highest character and never abusing the confidence of those placing reliance in its judgment.

Suits and Overcoats for Men and Young Men at $15, $18, $20, $22 and $25.

The high round shoulders, snugly fitting collars, the close lying lapel, the drape and shape, and cling and swing which stamp the best custom tailored garments. The compelling traits of our clothing is the aristocratic air which they lend to the wearer.

Defeated But Not Destroyed.

Alfred Edward Jones, late Republican candidate for judicial honors in Fayette county, takes his defeat gracefully. He is learning the game of politics. The next time he runs for office he will run better because of the fact that he has learned his lesson in the face of disaster, because he was "regular," and because HE WAS CLEAN AND HONEST in his campaign. The charge of corruption does not lie against him.

Without meaning to draw any INVIDIOUS DISTINCTIONS, which at this particular time were PROFITLESS, it may be frankly said that the Republican candidate for judicial honors, accidental though he may have been, LED THE WAY TO CLEANER ELECTIONS by refusing on his part to pander to that vicious element in politics which auctions off its sacred right of suffrage to the highest bidder and makes a mock of that singularly held doctrine that this is "a government of the people, by the people and for the people."

We hope that Candidate Jones and all his friends and supporters will not take ill anything we have said concerning the conditions he had to meet, whether such conditions were of his own making or not, but that they will recognize the justice and the necessity of HOLDING FAST TO THE PRINCIPLES upon which this glorious government of ours was founded, which principles may be summed up in the brief statement that it is the RIGHT OF THE MAJORITY TO RULE.

"With Malice toward none and with Charity for all," we respectfully invite a somewhat disorganized and generalized Republican party to CEASE RECRIMINATION AND ABUSE within itself; to QUIT TEARING DOWN and begin THE WORK OF RESTORATION; to get together and get busy in the good work of RETRIEVING ITS FALLEN FORTUNES; TO GIVE THE COMMON ENEMY NO FURTHER CAUSE FOR CONGRATULATION; to show to the country that the Republicans of Fayette county are DEFEATED but not DISMAYED; DEMORALIZED, perhaps, but not DESTROYED.

The B. & O. Shops Will Not Be Moved.

Our Rockwood correspondent hears that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company is "considering the advisability of moving its shops from Conneltsville to Rockwood, unless the Conneltsville authorities change their tactics in a very short time."

The proposition is rather startling and the reason is perhaps equally so. It is stated as follows: "For many years ordinances of a restrictive character have been saddled on the Baltimore & Ohio, which the road declares are unjust. This information was given out by an official."

There is no foundation for such a statement. Conneltsville has always supported and befriended the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and never harassed or bullied its management. It has given the railway company freely of its substance as well as its business and its best wishes. The statement is a slander upon the Conneltsville people.

Another official recently grumbled to a reporter that the union labor sentiment of the town was hampering the company in its efforts to run its shops here and intimated that if the public policy of Conneltsville in this respect was not changed the shops would be shut down; but this official protested earnestly against this report being printed in The Courier, and it was not printed principally because it was not true.

The sentiment of Conneltsville is not voiced by a few walking delegates, whose business it is to praise of the rights and wrongs of labor at a liberal rate per week, nor of a few demagogues who echo their sentiments to gain their support in business or in politics. Conneltsville people are for the Open Shop, the Square Deal and Fair Play at all times and under all circumstances. The B. & O. shops will not be moved away nor shut down, because there is no necessity for doing either.

Railroads and Trolleys for Greene County.

Railway enterprise takes numerous forms, but the announcement that the Baltimore & Ohio is backing various trolley developments in Greene and Washington counties in adjacent parts of West Virginia will not receive full faith and credit until the public is shown.

It is quite out of the ordinary for railroads to engage in trolley projects, though it may be confessed that such a thing is not impossible either as an auxiliary proposition or an independent venture.

The development of the coal fields of Washington and Greene counties and the Panhandle of West Virginia is inevitable and imminent; that development will involve trolley systems as well as railway construction, and unless the communal interest of the coke region railroads still has a statu quo the company that is most enterprising will gather most permissibly.

Some interesting railroad developments are scheduled to arrive in these undeveloped coal fields soon.

The Minority Report.

It was an off-year for the Prohibitionists of Fayette county, too. The party that gave the Democrats a hard chase for second place a few years ago when Colonel Lukins was in the saddle now finds itself struggling with the Socialists for third place. In politics the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong, but rather to the active, the sleepless, the tireless, the aggressive, and sometimes to the ambitious and optimistic.

Judge Umbel carried the Democratic ticket through on his own shoulders. The Fayette county One Trust is accused of trying to buy off possible competition.

The dismissal of the demand of the West Virginia coal companies for a more equitable distribution of cars on the part of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company indicates that not all the complaints of shippers against railroads are founded in reason and justice.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

United Press Special.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Visitors to Washington who have their eyes open may see, once or twice a day, a big closed wagon drawn by three sturdy white horses drive up Fifteenth street and park up against the curb at one of the entrances to the Treasury Department. There is nothing especially to distinguish this wagon from lots of others, except that there are usually two men on the front seat beside the driver and two other men standing on the back seat. But when the visitor notices the packages that are taken out of the wagon, this extra complement of attendants ceases to occasion comment or surprise. It seems to be quite natural, and the coming and going of the wagon attracts little attention.

Yet there is a romance about that van which is to every man, woman and child in the country who has spent a dollar bill of any other amount in currency for that matter. In the last 25 years every piece of paper money that has been issued in the United States during that time has first ridden in that wagon, and the total equals all the money there is in the world today.

A recent calculation produced some rather remarkable comparisons. For instance, the report says: "It would take a string of hay wagons 20 miles long to hold the money that has passed through this old van if the packages were placed one on top of the other; they would make a monument 15 miles high. If the bills were placed end to end the string would be 250,000 miles long, or equal to ten times the distance around the world. They would carpet a road 50 feet wide from New York to San Francisco. Their weight in gold would supply the average family with fuel for 250 years. That an expert began counting this money in the days of Columbus he would have been half through when President Taft was inaugurated."

So it is rather an interesting old wagon, after all. Its trips are not long, although they are so important. It takes the currency from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where it is printed, to the Treasury Department, scarcely half a mile away. The money is packed in bundles, each weighing 12 1/2 pounds and each containing 1,000 sheets with $100 bills in the sheet. The value of each package depends, of course, upon the denomination or "size" of the bills it contains. One package which was composed altogether of $100 bills and was worth $100,000, was once stolen. That was an exceptional bundle, but even when the bills are of the lowest denomination, $1, the packages are worth $1,000 each.

It is because of the value of its load that the old wagon is accompanied by four men, two in front and two behind, besides the driver. Uncle Sam is not taking any chances on a "hold-up" even if the drive is so short. Each of those men is heavily armed and ready to tackle any man, or party of men, that should attempt a "cold" west display in the neighborhood of the wagon.

MAY APPOINT WICKERSHAM

Washington Gossipers Say Taft Will Name Him For Supreme Bench. Washington, Nov. 4.—It is the understanding in Washington among men in a position to know that George W. Wickersham of New York, attorney general of the United States, will be appointed associate justice of the supreme court to succeed the late Rufus J. Peckham if he desires the office. What Mr. Wickersham's inclinations in the matter are is not known.

It is the talk of Washington that should Mr. Wickersham be appointed justice of the supreme court he will be succeeded as attorney general by Lloyd W. Bowers of Illinois, the present solicitor general of the United States, of whom President Taft has a high opinion. Mr. Taft said once that he regarded it as a great stroke of luck to obtain the services of Mr. Bowers, who had, he said, one of the most orderly legal minds he had ever encountered.

MAIL ROUTE CHANGED FOR SUMMIT OFFICE

And Citizens There Fear B. & O. Will Take Train Service Off Mt. Pleasant Branch.

Special to The Courier. OWENSDALE, Nov. 4.—The mail route was changed Monday, all mail going through the Dawson postoffice and then brought across country by rural carrier, Bert Gault. However, the change does not necessitate a change of address, unless the petition now being prepared to be forwarded to the government meets with the approval of the postal authorities. This petition is an earnest endeavor to have the postoffice address changed from Summit Mines to Owensdale, the former postoffice address. The address was changed by the railroad authorities coupled with the assistance of a prominent coal company. And now the citizens are making an effort to have the postoffice changed again to its right address.

Residents along the Mt. Pleasant branch of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are highly indignant over the rumored dropping of the Mt. Pleasant Accommodation, better known as the Mountain Accommodation, by the railroad officials. However this report is not confirmed. Some rumor would have it known that if the Summit Mines mail was changed, going through the Dawson postoffice and then brought across the country, that the B. & O. railroad would discontinue this train service on the Mt. Pleasant branch. No official notice has been given to this effect, but should train service be discontinued by the railroad winter schedule, prominent residents along the branch will make an appeal to the State Railway Commission.

The new opening to secure crop land at the Tip Top mine is fast nearing completion. The tipple is almost completed and when completed will be loaded direct from the tipple into railway cars. The tramway at the Eagle mine has been completed, almost one mile in length. This tramway was built to haul coal from the mine to the tipple and from the tipple to the coal manufacturing plant. Sixty acres of the Eagle mine plant have been put into blast this week and it is the intention to fire the entire plant.

THE SECOND MONTH OF TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

The Connellsville Country Districts Had Fair General Average Attendance During October.

The second month of the school term in the Connellsville township schools closed Friday, October 29. The reports from the different schools show a fair general attendance although in several rooms it is lower than last month. This is chiefly due to sickness among the pupils.

The work accomplished during the month gives evidence that each teacher is striving hard to live up to the high standard established during the first month.

In the High School grades the first of the bi-monthly examinations were held on Thursday and Friday of last week. The result of these examinations show that good progress has been made in this department although in the case of a few branches the lack of books during the first part of the term produced lower grades than usual.

During the month the Board employed John Helms as Trust Officer, who has done good work in bringing in those irregular in attendance.

The following is a report of attendance:

DOUBLE MURDER IS CHARGED

Presiding Judge Bars All Women From Courtroom, Saying Trial Is Not Going to Be a Millinery Show. Mme. Steinheil in Mourning.

Paris, Nov. 4.—The trial of Mme. Marguerite Steinheil for the murder of her husband, a well known artist, and her mother, Mme. Japy, has opened in the Seine Assize court. The interest in this remarkable case is so great and the desire to listen to the testimony so intense that the Judge, M. Vialles, was compelled to issue orders that the trial would not be a spectacle or a millinery show and that the majesty of the law would be upheld. For this reason he barred out women as spectators and when the crowds began to assemble before the doors they found the corridors surrounding the court strictly barred by municipal guards.

MME. STEINHEIL.

Mme. Steinheil conducted her own case for a short time. She was, in turn, beseeching, imploring and menacing. Her silvery voice was now full of pathos and again vibrated with indignation. She made all her points with the utmost possible effect. The Madame denied that she had an early intrigue with a lieutenant of the army. She defended her husband who, she said, was a kindly man who was ignorant of her misdeeds. She admitted that he appeared to be sad at times, but in explaining this said it was because of his inability to sell his pictures.

Mme. Steinheil was a Country Girl. Madame Steinheil, who is now about thirty-nine, was the daughter of M. and Madame Japy, a very respectable couple. She was a country girl who was ambitious to go to Paris and when Adolph Steinheil, a well known artist, came along and asked her to marry him she consented. They lived in Paris with her mother, Madame Japy.

On May 31, 1908, Paris awoke to a great sensation, a murder mystery which the trial just begun is about to solve. Adolph Steinheil had been strangled in his bed. In the next room his mother-in-law, Madame Japy, had been killed in a similar manner. In still another room Madame Steinheil, his wife, and the prisoner in this trial, was found gagged and bound. The only other person in the house was Remy Couillard, the valet, who discovered the double murder and released Madame Steinheil.

Madame Steinheil was naturally greatly excited. She said she had been bound and gagged by three men and a woman who, she thought, might have been her husband's models whom he took from the highways and byways of Paris, according to her story. All her jewelry had been taken. The police were unable to make any headway for some time.

Confessed to Telling False Story. Madame Steinheil declared that she herself would run down the murderers. She made several false identifications, but finally accused Couillard, the valet. In his pocket there was found a pearl which she had reported to the police in her list of missing jewelry. Afterward she confessed that she had put the ring in Couillard's pocket in order to shield another woman she loved. This other person had dropped her.

Interest in the mysterious case was heightened by the fact that Madame Steinheil had been a friend of the late President Faure, who died suddenly of apoplexy in 1899. In fact, it has been asserted that she was in his company a few hours before he died in a rather mysterious way in the presidential abode whither he had been hastily removed from the house of an actress.

POSSE HUNTING

NEGRO WRETCHES.

Brutally Assault Woman Living at Exchange, W. Va.

ONE FIEND SHOT AND KILLED

Two of the Three Negroes Escaped; If Found Double Lynching Is Believed to Be Inevitable—Most Revolting Crime Perpetrated.

Elkins, W. Va., Nov. 4.—Aroused to fury by an atrocious crime perpetrated by three negroes against Mrs. Albert Rockhold, a white woman, living near Gassaway, a posse is hunting two of the wretches who escaped. One was killed by a bullet fired by the posse.

If the pair still at liberty are caught a double lynching is believed to be inevitable.

The home of Rockhold, who is employed as a miner by the Coal and Coke railway, is at an isolated spot half a mile north of Gassaway. Invading it early in the morning, three negroes, whose identities are not known, after compelling Rockhold to deliver all the money he had in the house, bound him in his room. In his presence his wife was assaulted.

The negro, whose crime is said to have been most revolting, was overtaken later at Exchange, eight miles north of Gassaway, while trying to escape and was instantly killed.

Rockhold was awakened to find the three negroes standing beside his bed. They had entered the house without disturbing either Rockhold or his wife. Rockhold, at the point of revolvers, was ordered to deliver his money. With death as the alternative, Rockhold did as commanded.

Still keeping him covered, the negroes tied him, hand and foot, so that he was absolutely helpless. When Rockhold had been securely bound, two of the negroes left the house and stationed themselves outside as guards, while the third, leveling a revolver, assaulted his wife. He remained until daylight. Soon afterward Rockhold pleaded with his captors that he must go to work, using this as a ruse to escape. He was released on condition that he should not tell anyone of the crime or inform the authorities. Half crazed, Rockhold, on being unbound, went to Gassaway for help.

One Negro Killed Instantly. All three negroes disappeared before a posse of enraged citizens, heavily armed, arrived at the Rockhold home. The pursuing posse went to Exchange, to which place they had tracked one of the negroes. They found the man in a store there. The negro, turning like a hunted animal, started to escape through a window, when Rockhold, who was at the head of the posse, ordered him to throw up his hands. At bay, the negro reached toward his hip pocket, but before he could clutch his revolver a bullet was fired, killing the brute instantly. The negro had bought a ticket from Exchange to Orlando, and this, together with the gun, was found in his clothing.

Hoping to catch the two other negroes, the pursuers continued on to Orlando but did not find their quarry there.

The two negroes who escaped were seen at Burnsville and were making their way up the Little Kanawha river. A large posse has followed them up this stream.

All three of the negroes were strangers in the Gassaway region. They are described as being well dressed.

Authorities within a radius of 100 miles of Gassaway have been asked to look out for the fugitives.

Mrs. Rockhold, it is reported, though suffering seriously, will recover.

Dispute Following Burning of Negro Threatens Trouble.

Knoxville, Miss., Nov. 4.—A neighborhood dispute that threatens feud proportions is raging here, following the creation of a negro, Leonard Dunmore, and the shooting of his daughter. The town is divided in opinion over the question of whether Dunmore should have been burned alive on the charge of arson without having the opportunity of trial. War rumors for the arrest of the six men have been issued.

Six men called at the home of Dunmore on the outskirts of town and asked him what he knew of the burning of several homes of men by whom Dunmore had been discharged owing to his unsatisfactory services while in their employ. Dunmore dashed back into his house and, arming himself with a shotgun, declared from a window that unless his inquisitors moved away he would shoot to kill. One of the six men took a snapshot at the negro winging him. Then the men dragged Dunmore from his home, built up a pyre and, pouring oil over his body, burned him alive.

While the flames were blazing about Dunmore's body his daughter rushed from the house and attempted to rescue him. She would have succeeded had not one of the men in the party shot her down. The black girl was fatally wounded. It is charged against the negro that he burned seven houses in Knoxville during the last month.

THEATRICAL NEWS.

THE SOISSON.

"Ikey and Abey." Playing the Soisson theatre tomorrow night will be the laugh producing clean cut, brilliant sparkling three act comedy by Frank Tannhill, Jr. The "Two Commercial Drummers Ikey and Abey," is the comedy hit of the season. The story on which the plot centers is that of two Hebrew salesmen who are antagonistic rivals. In their endeavor to secure customers for their respective employers many funny complications ensue. The company is made up of specially selected and capable comedians. During the action of the play a number of songs will be introduced, among which are

Dainty Estelle Allen in "The Princess of Patches" at the Soisson Next Tuesday.

Ikey and Abey.

"If Charles Froham Only Knew." "There is Nothing Else in Life Like Love." "I Want to Be a Prima Donna." "Somebody Ought to Tell Her Husband." "Awful Glad I Met You." The chorus is composed of sprightly girls who are both good singers and dancers. The scenic and electrical effects are pretty and appropriate.

"Paid in Full."

So wide is the fame of Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full" that the announcement that the Vignobles & Keaner Company will present this play at the Soisson theatre next Wednesday for a matinee and night performance will stir the keenest expectancy on the part of theatre patrons of every mind and taste. No play ever produced in this country has been so much talked about and written about as "Paid in Full," none has been enjoyed by so many millions, therefore indifferent to the greatest features of the stage is the person who has not a keen appreciation of this noted drama of today which to quote one eminent critic, "is a story that is walling up and down the streets whose men and women are those with whom we daily rub elbows." Of this celebrated play Harper's Weekly said, "It is just what it should be—quick, alert, full of interest." There is convincing proof that the vast public indorses this judgment of "Paid in Full" and finds it just what it should be. "Paid in Full" piled up the enormous run of an unbroken run of two years in New York and last season five companies were playing it all over the country. Never before has a play been presented by so many companies. Cities could not see it often enough. It returned five and six times to many places, always to bigger audiences than before. After the two years' New York run there were many return engagements on Broadway, played by the various companies, so that the several organizations had their turn in the big city and never failed to score. Hence every "Paid in Full" company can rightfully be called a New York cast, and those who witness the coming performance here will see exactly what Broadway saw and admired.

CHAPTER V.

"I WILL start late," said Haggleton, "I will keep nothing but the clothes I stand in—and $2. That's what I started with the first time. I started with more than that. Two dollars will suffice for me. My clothes I can sell and buy a suit more fitting for a penniless man looking for a job. The difference in price I will add to my capital. You will have to explain me to Moran and make him take me as a boarder. I am Mr. Jackson, a small business man ruined by the trust."

Then he added to Philip: "Call my secretary." The man entered hastily. "I wish to be alone with Mr. Grimes for a few moments." Philip and Haggleton withdrew. Grimes looked at his watch. "The yacht was to sail in twenty minutes," he remonstrated. "You will lose the tide."

"I'm not going on the yacht."

"Ah! Then I'm to countermand the sailing orders?"

"I mean that the yacht goes, but I stay here—in this moment. I'm going to live here."

"Am I to sail on the yacht?"

"Of course. You will take my orders and see that they are executed. I shall write a note for the captain, telling him to carry out exactly the instructions already agreed upon."

"For a three months' cruise?"

"Yes. See to it that the news does not get out that I am not on board. Down here there's not a chance in a thousand that I will be discovered, and—Grimes, I have another reason for wanting every one to think me aboard the yacht."

"Another reason besides—besides your son?"

"Yes. You know how Bates went off yesterday. He hates me—hates me—and he'll pay up somehow, but he'll never stop fighting. Grimes, as soon as those fellows know I'm away they'll start some new devilry against me, and—be leamed forward—It might be amusing and profitable to be right here in Manhattan watching them."

Haggleton opened the door. "Come in, please," he called. Gentle and Philip entered.

"The old man sat at the huge wooden table and rapidly wrote his instructions. Then he sealed them and addressed the envelope. 'There, I think that's all,' he concluded, giving it to Grimes, who departed.

A remarkable change had come over Haggleton. His eyes were alert, his face firm, but good natured. He seemed pleased with himself and with things in general. Philip observed this with surprise.

Haggleton looked Philip straight in the eyes.

"I have told you that I am going to show you what John J. Haggleton would do if he had to hustle in a tenement."

He now turned to Gentle and began to fire rapid questions at him. Moran? A morose man, who needed his full share to the inquiry of a trust. Quite so. After his first failure he had simply stopped struggling? Just so. He was a baker's assistant? Could he get "Mr. Jackson" a place in the bakery? Mr. Jackson thought that he would like to have a try at the bakery business. Jenny? Hard working, but overwhelmed by her dispiriting environment and the privations of poverty. Just as he thought.

Joe Caffrey? Shiftless? Punctual? Well, well! Joe must become their charge.

In ten minutes John J. knew all he cared to know. As in the organization of his gigantic undertakings, so now here, in this hotel, he had begun by gauging the possibilities of those with whom he would have to deal. He had watched his son and seen the look of interest, growing into admiration, upon his face. Yes, he had made a good beginning.

Haggleton rose and took a final turn of the room.

"When I came here nearly forty years ago," he announced, "this was a clean district. Now it is a dirty one. American cleanliness has been submerged by foreign shiftlessness. Within a week I will have this home of native Americans as neat as a New England farmhouse."

Where was he to sleep? Joe Caffrey would be Philip's guest for a day or two? All right. That nurse had said that the children ought to be in a hospital? Gentle would see to it that they went that very day and got their father's consent? All right.

Gentle went on his mission, Haggleton accompanying him to sell his clothes and buy cheaper ones.

Jenny returned home with her basket of images and welcomed an addition to their resources in the form of a boarder who would be far less troublesome than the two children and more profitable. Mr. Jackson, Philip informed her, had seen better days—in fact, until quite recently he had lived in easy circumstances.

Tired as she was, depressed by the knowledge that she had lost Philip, she began to set the board to rights.

Margaret, however, entering from the inner room, found her energetically at work making a distinction between the box that contained the coal and the basket that held the potatoes. Gentle returned, accompanied by the ambulance. The children were bundled off, with much excitement on their part and many farewells, Margaret—final front exacted from her—riding with them!

Haggleton—now "Mr. Jackson"—returned soon after, having sold his expensive clothes and bought with the proceeds a simple suit, better adapted to the role he was to play.

Jenny shook hands with Mr. Jackson, whom Gentle introduced, and bade him make himself at home. Gentle went.

The new boarder was certainly handy. He took off his coat and offered to help. Without waiting for an acceptance of the offer he began. He was deferential—he had "beautiful manners," Jenny concluded—looking permission even while he set to work. In this way he brought some order into the chaos of the young woman's domestic economy. It was a mere scraping of the surface, but when it had been accomplished Jenny was doubly convinced that it was who had made the suggestions, Mr. Jackson who had merely carried them out.

"My, but you're handy," said Jenny, glancing around contentedly at the new arrangement of the room and the various small improvements.

"Well, you see, Mrs. Jenny—may I call you that? They all do. I am an old bachelor and used to doing things for myself. You don't mind?"

"Certainly not. I have so much to do I never seem to get a chance to do any one thing thoroughly."

Jenny looked at the alarm clock.

"Father will be home soon for dinner now," she announced, "and Joe, my brother-in-law."

Moran arrived, worn out, in a vile humor. Jenny introduced the new boarder to him.

The latter's assistant looked Mr. Jackson over with restless curiosity, which changed to ill concealed hostility when he saw the neatness of the newcomer's clothes and his well kept hands. He himself had been like that once! Moreover, the man had an inoffensive air of distinction. Who and what was he to look like that? Nothing but a failure, endeavoring to find a new foothold in life.

Moran resolved to establish the proper relations at once.

"I am Moran," he said, "and you are Jackson. Mr. does not go down here."

"All right, Moran. Jackson it is," Joe affirmed, having lost Jenny's $2, but cheerful as ever.

The new boarder interested him, and he began to make his acquaintance, his method being the not unusual one of asking innocently impertinent questions.

Haggleton saw another opportunity, and, as usual, he took it. He talked to Joe, but at Moran.

Yes, Haggleton was looking for a job. No; he had not saved a penny out of his failure.

But Moran snorted. "Once you are down and out you stay down and out," he snarled. "Well, I will try, anyhow."

"Mr. does not go down here."

"You won't get the opportunity."

"I shan't wait for it. I will create it."

"Stuff! Once you are down and out you stay down and out."

Haggleton listened attentively, analyzing the man's arguments as they flowed from his now fluent lips. It was the first time that he heard the voice of a man discontent direct, instead of giving it a hasty moment of attention as it expressed itself in press reports or magazine articles.

What struck him at once about Moran's frame was that the man placed upon the shoulders of the rich not only the responsibility for all the wrongs of society, but also the duty of righting them without any assistance from him and his class.

Joe became impatient.

"Stop gassing, Moran," he said tersely. "I always tell him that he's smoking the wrong pipe, Mr. Jackson."

"What would you do if you were rich, Mr. Caffrey?" asked Haggleton.

"Oh, say, you just watch me. I'd be at the track every day at 2.15. In the grand stand. Wouldn't I wear the smart clothes? I would put a thousand on every race, one, two, three, and a thousand straight on every hundred to one shot."

"You would soon be rid of your money, Mr. Caffrey."

"Not me. Say, do you think that the millionaires haven't got the races fixed, like everything else? They know the owners and the trainers and the jockeys and the starters—oh, say, it's a phoo."

Joe continued his picture of riches beyond the dreams of avarice:

"Not but that I would not own a million dollar yacht, like John J., he continued.

Moran sprang up.

"The thief," he shouted, "the robber, the bloodsucker, the murderer! He has made me what I am. He has killed my daughter's husband. He—"

The man stopped.

"His daughter's husband, my brother-in-law," explained Joe very calmly, "was killed at a grade crossing by a train on a road in which John J. has a lot of stock."

"Dinner," said Jenny tersely.

The three men rose, drew up their chairs to the table and sat down. Haggleton made a pretense of eating, but barely touched anything. He still devoted himself to Moran. That chance reference to work in the bakery must not be allowed to pass. At last he won from him the admission that a helper in the bakery was sick and that a substitute was needed. A promise to recommend him for the temporary employment was extracted.

And so Haggleton was to be a baker like Moran!

The millionaire turned to Jenny.

"That's fine coffee," he said. "I used to keep house for myself after a fashion, and, do you know, I am just like a woman—I take an interest in prices. What do you pay for this coffee?"

"Eighteen cents," she said, "for a half pound."

"Already ground, I suppose?"

"Yes."

"Well! A pound of good coffee in the bean costs only 23 cents. Ah, yes, we poor people waste a lot of money!"

Moran stared at him.

"Waste money?"

"Yes, sir. I believe there's more extravagance down here than in Fifth Avenue. Now, Mrs. Jenny, what do you pay for coal?"

"Fifteen cents a bucketful."

"How much in a bucketful?"

"You can search me."

"Twenty-five pounds," said Joe.

"Twenty-five pounds," calculated Haggleton. "That's thirty bucketfuls to a ton. Fifty times fifteen is $75. You pay twice as much for coal as Haggleton does."

"He buys it by the ton," growled Moran. "Where would we put a ton of coal?"

Has Been Brewing in Tammany Hall For Some Time and Tuesday's Defeat May Crystallize Opposition.

New York, Nov. 4.—There were many reflections by Tammany men today over the defeat of Tuesday. For some time there has been something like a smothered revolution in Tammany and the recent defeat may crystallize the opposition against the leaders. There have been practically three leaders; in fact, four, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Cahalan and Big Tim and Little Tim Sullivan. No other leaders have been consulted. It was stated, on fundamentals. The city and county and borough tickets were parcelled out, or rather allotted, by these four men. There has been a divided responsibility and this has resulted in much friction. The Tom Foley followers have been stirred to the depths by the refusal to name him for borough president.

There was some little talk that eventually Supreme Court Justice Dowling would be considered the leader of Tammany, but Justice Dowling made it very plain in his incisive and quick sentences that he was a supreme justice and that no man living could get him to meddle with politics while on the bench.

Then, too, the old report which has been a constant hope for several days, that Richard Croker would return and take up the reins of leadership, was brought out again. "Not for millions," said Mr. Croker at the Democratic club. "Not for millions. I am too old. I cannot stand the racket. I am going to Florida tomorrow."

Crocker Can't Understand Antagonism. Mr. Croker, according to his intimates, has never quite understood the animosity of Mr. Murphy to him. Onwardly, the relations have been all right, but Mr. Murphy, since he became leader of Tammany, according to these self-same intimates of Mr. Croker, has seized all opportunities to attempt to humiliate Mr. Croker, and it was Mr. Croker it was recalled, who made Mr. Murphy district leader of the Eighteenth. Mr. Croker, it was added, has not understood either the unfriendly attitude of the Sullivan to him. So there was bad feeling all around.

The Tammany bunch—Charles F. Murphy, Daniel F. Cahalan and the Sullivan, Big and Little Tim—will, in the opinion of those who understand the situation, stand to death politically unless Mayor Cuyler comes to their rescue. For four years after Jan. 1 next these Tammany men, who have been running the organization, will have no borough presidents of Manhattan and the Bronx upon whom to draw for sustenance for their followers.

MOUNTAINEERS CELEBRATE

Thousands of Bullets Fired at Jackson, Ky., After Election. Lexington, Ky., Nov. 4.—The reign of terror at Jackson the county seat of bloody Brimblett, was the worst the citizens of that feud-ridden section have ever experienced. The mountaineers, many of them intoxicated, as soon as the election returns began coming in and they saw that their candidate was in a fair way to be elected, began firing pistols and guns and exploding dynamite bombs. Thousands of shots were fired in the streets. The soldiers which had been sent here to prevent a riot were unable to interfere, as they were without ammunition. The law office of O. H. Pollard in which the newspaper correspondents and many citizens, a number of them women, had assembled to hear the election returns, was riddled by bullets and many persons narrowly escaped injury.

Nebraska Election Still in Doubt. Omaha, Nov. 4.—The result of the election in Nebraska is still in doubt and the official returns are necessary for a decision. Chairman Hayward of the Republican committee claims the supreme court by 2,900

HARD JOLT TO DRYS

Millionaire Colonies Near New York
Vote For License.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Although the followers of local option made a hard battle to make fourteen towns in West Chester county dry, the returns show that only one town in the county went dry. This was Yorktown, in the northern part of West Chester Mount Pleasant, where John D. Rockefeller has a country estate went in favor of wet by about 400 majority. Mr. Rockefeller has always been opposed to saloons in the neighborhood of his country mansion at Pocantico Hills and it is said that he urged his employees to vote for no license. The hardest fight took place at White Plains, where an effort was made to close up every hotel. They were beaten badly there. Even saloons were given the privilege to reopen, and White Plains promises to be a wet town hereafter.

The town of Bedford, which has been dry for several years went for license, while the town of Greenburgh, where William Rockefeller, Alas Helen Gould, Edwin Gould and other millionaires have their homes, and which contains the Ardsley Country club and the Knollwood Golf club also voted in favor of license. The town of Pelham and Yonkers, in which the New York Athletic and Larchmont Yacht club are situated both voted against prohibition as did the town of Ossining, which contains the large Briar Cliff lodge, owned by Walter M. Law.

TOOK $100,000.

Big Four Railroad Treasurer Accused
of Embezzlement.

New York, Nov. 4.—Charles L. Warriner, the local treasurer of the passenger department of the Big Four railroad at Cincinnati was brought from that city to New York charged with embezzlement. According to William C. Brown, president of the New York Central, of which the Big Four is a branch, Warriner had taken from the company a sum that now amounts to more than $100,000. It will be several days, Mr. Brown said, before the exact amount can be stated. President Brown made this statement about the case: "It is true that Warriner is being held for taking the company's funds. He was found to be short in his accounts, but just how much I cannot say just now. We think that he has taken about $100,000."

Mr. Brown said that Warriner had been in the employ of the Big Four for more than twenty-five years, during which time he appeared to be strictly honest. Mr. Brown thought that the reason for Warriner's peculations was that he had recently become involved in stock gambling and had tried to even up by "borrowing" from the railroad. The stealing, Mr. Brown thought, had been going on for several years.

In Cincinnati Warriner bore a good reputation. He has lived for a number of years in Wyoming and owns a comfortable home there. He is reported to be a man of regular habits and not extravagant.

ROOSEVELT PARTY

Worried by Fact Pace Set by Its Leader.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Members of the party of Theodore Roosevelt on his hunting trip in Africa are "tired to death and ready to quit," according to E. W. Newman who has returned from a tour through East Africa, over the same ground as that traversed by the former president. Mr. Newman met the Roosevelt party last July at Nairobi and had a long talk with the former president and his hunting companions. Regret over criticism aroused in America by the slaughter of animals was expressed by Mr. Roosevelt according to Mr. Newman. "The people of the land are amazed at the energy of the former president," said Mr. Newman. "The individual members of his caravan have been marched to death and are anxious to quit. The people of British East Africa declare that Colonel Roosevelt talks finance to a banker, farming to a farmer and politics to a politician with equal ease. 'I am having a hell of a time and am perfectly delighted with the treatment I have received in this country,' the great hunter said to me on the occasion of my first meeting with him. We did not talk politics and I did not ask him how many animals he had killed being warned beforehand that there were two questions which were barred."

SCENE IN FATAL WEST POINT-HARVARD FOOTBALL GAME FEW SECONDS BEFORE CADET BYRNE WAS MORTALLY HURT

Tals—one of the most remarkable football photographs ever made—was taken a few seconds before Cadet Eugene A. Byrne received a mortal injury in the contest between West Point and Harvard on the academy field, a tragedy which stopped football at West Point and gave the game the hardest blow of its history. Byrne, who was playing left tackle on the Army team, is indicated by an X in the photograph. A few minutes before the fatal scrimmage Byrne was injured in tackling Fish, the giant Harvard captain. Harvard had the ball in about the center of the field and tried to move past to Fish and's center rush, snapped the ball back to O'Malley, who passed it to Almet the fullback. Almet plunged between the Harvard right guard and tackle and was going ahead, with the whole weight of the team behind him when Byrne, whose business it was to lead the defense, got caught in the rush and went down. The injured man ran into the scrimmage crouching low but his head was up to see which way the ball was going to be kicked. It is supposed that he went down in that position when the Harvard players failed him Byrne's neck was dislocated at the second rehearsal, and he never recovered consciousness, dying in the post hospital several hours afterward. He was a fourth year man, and his home was in Buffalo. Colonel Scott, commandant of the Military academy, at once cancelled the rest of the football game scheduled for the cadet team and so wired to Annapolis. The injury to William W. Wilsen at Annapolis, coupled with the West Point tragedy, probably, will move the War Department to stop the game at both the government schools.
